1 I. INTRODUCTION

3 Plaintiff Phimpa Thepvongsa filed a lawsuit to delay the lawful foreclosure
 4 process underway related to the subject property. Despite including multiple 5 counts, Plaintiff has failed to allege minimal facts to support any cognizable claim 6 under the law, and/or to support the conclusions of alleged wrongful conduct on 7 behalf of any of the Defendants herein.

8 Thus, without legal or factual support, and contrary to the express language
 9 of the Deed of Trust attached as an exhibit to the Plaintiff's Complaint, Plaintiff
 10 concludes that MERS' designation, as a nominal beneficiary is somehow unlawful 11 or "false." Plaintiff also includes an unfair debt collection claim against 12 Defendants, but fails to allege facts to support that the Defendants are subject to 13 the debt collection statutes, and ignores that foreclosure activity does not fall in the 14 purview of debt collection as defined by the law.

15 Each of the Plaintiff's other claims, including his claims for intentional 16 infliction of emotional distress, slander, breach of fiduciary duty, violation of the 17 Washington Consumer Protection Act, Fair Credit Reporting Act, RESPA and 18 seeking injunctive relief are either legally meritless, factually unsupported, and/or 19 fails to satisfy minimal notice pleading standards pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil 20 Procedure 8(a). As a result, Plaintiff has failed to state any claim against 21 Defendants herein, and Plaintiff's Complaint should be dismissed in its entirety, 22 with prejudice.

2 II. BACKGROUND

4 On June 24, 2010, Plaintiff filed a multi-count Complaint against

5 Defendants Ocwen Loan Servicing, LLC ("Ocwen"); Deutsche Bank National Trust

6 Company, As Trustee for the registered holders of Morgan Stanley ABS Capital I

7 Inc. Trust 2007-NC4 Mortgage Pass through certificates (erroneously named

8 herein as "Deutsche Bank National Trust Company and Morgan Stanley ABS

9 Capital I Inc.") (hereinafter Deutsche Bank National, As Trustee"); and Mortgage

10 Electronic Registration Systems, Inc. ("MERS") (collectively herein, 11 "Defendants") alleging claims for: (1) Intentional Infliction of Emotional Distress;

12 (2) Slander of Title; (3) Breach of Fiduciary Duty; (4) Unfair Business Practices in 13 violation of the Consumer Protection Act; (5) Preliminary Injunction; (6) violation

14 of Fair Debt Collection Practices Act; (7) violation of Fair Credit Reporting Act;

15 and (8) violation of the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act. Plaintiff's

16 allegations stem from the loan application/origination, and servicing process in

17 connection with the 2007 purchase of Plaintiff's home, located at 10722 18th

18 Avenue Southwest, Seattle, Washington (the "Property"). Complaint, II, ¶ 2.

1 III. ARGUMENT

3 A. Plaintiff's Claims Based Upon MERS' Alleged Unlawful Status As The

4 Nominee Beneficiary Under the Deed of Trust Are Without Legal Merit.

5 Washington courts, as well as other courts in this Circuit have all rejected

6 the argument as alleged by the Plaintiff herein that MERS lacks the necessary

7 authority to act as the designated nominee beneficiary, or otherwise acted

8 unlawfully with respect to the Property.

9 To more clearly illustrate the point, the court in Perlas v. Mortgage Elec.

10 Registration Systems, Inc. rejected a similar, if not exactly the same, argument as 11 alleged by the plaintiff herein. 2010 WL 3079262, *4 (N.D. Cal.). In Perlas, the 12 plaintiffs alleged claims of fraud and unfair competition based on their conclusion

13 that MERS wrongfully concealed the nature of its "true status" and therefore "did

14 not have the legal right to initiate foreclosure proceedings." Perlas, 2010 WL

15 3079262, *3. The Perlas court ruled that the plaintiffs failed to state a claim

16 because the Deed of Trust adequately disclosed the nature of MERS' status as the 17 nominee on behalf of the lender, i.e., a contractually designated agent with special

18 "limited powers," including the power to initiate foreclosure proceedings. Id. at 3-

19 4; see also, e.g., Moon v. GMAC Mortg. Corp., 2008 WL 4741492, at *5

20 (W.D.Wash.) (rejecting argument that MERS lacked legal authority to act as the 21 designated beneficiary).

22 Applied here, Plaintiff relies on the same unfounded and incorrect theory of 23 law related to MERS' status as the designated nominee beneficiary as was debunked in Perlas. The Property Deed of Trust at issue in this case clearly contains similar contractual designee language related to MERS as in the Perlas case. See Complaint, Ex. 1 (admitting that MERS was contractually designated in the Deed of Trust as the nominee for the lender). As there is no legal basis under Washington law that prohibits a lender from contractually designating a beneficiary such as MERS to act as its “nominee beneficiary,” Plaintiff’s claims should similarly be dismissed for failure to state a claim.

B. Plaintiff’s Claim for Intentional Infliction of Emotional Distress Fails As a Matter of Law.

Plaintiff’s imprecise and conclusory pleading in support of his claim for the tort of outrage/intentional infliction of emotional distress is insufficient to state a claim as a matter of law.

In accordance with well-established Washington law, to state a claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress, the plaintiff must plead facts to establish: “(1) extreme and outrageous conduct, (2) intentional or reckless infliction of emotional distress, and (3) actual resulting severe emotional distress. The acts must be so outrageous in character, and so extreme in degree, as to go beyond all possible bounds of decency, and to be regarded as atrocious, and utterly intolerable in a civilized community.” Pettis v. State of Washington, 98 Wash.App. 553, 563 (1st Div. 1999); Bell v. F.D.I.C., 2010 WL 3211960, *2 (W.D.Wash.). The Washington Supreme Court has further stated that “mere insults and indignities, such as causing embarrassment or humiliation, will not support imposition of liability on a claim of outrage.” Dicomes v. Washington, 113

Motion to Dismiss

1 Wash.2d 612, 630 (1989) (emphasis added) (affirming dismissal of claim where 2 allegations amounted to “showing of bad faith” and did not rise to the level of 3 outrageous conduct).

4 At the outset, Plaintiff has failed to satisfy his Federal Rule 8(a) obligation
 5 to provide basic notice to each Defendant as to the factual basis for the claims
 6 alleged against it. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(a)(2) requires that a 7 complaint contain “‘a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the 8 pleader is entitled to relief,’ in order to ‘give the defendant fair notice of what the 9 . . . claim is and the grounds upon which it rests.’” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550
 10 U.S. 544, 555, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007). Here, Plaintiff’s 11 ambiguous and conclusory allegation that “All of the Defendants’ conduct with 12 regard to Plaintiff constitutes the tort of outrage” gives absolutely no discernable 13 clue as to which defendant, committed what outrageous act that led to the 14 Plaintiff’s alleged severe emotional distress. Complaint, III, ¶2 (emphasis added).

15 Additionally, Plaintiff’s outrage claim fails for the critical reason that there 16 is no unprivileged conduct alleged anywhere within the four corners of the 17 Complaint that even arguably rises to the level of extreme and/or outrageous
 18 conduct necessary to justify this Court’s allowing the claim to survive. See e.g., 19 Bell v. F.D.I.C., 2010 WL 3211960 (finding that lawful foreclosure activity did not 20 constitute outrageous conduct); Dicomes v. Washington, 113 Wash.2d 612, 630 21 (1989) (affirming dismissal of claim where allegations did not rise to the level of 22 outrageous conduct). Because the only conduct complained of in the Plaintiff’s 23 Complaint is premised upon contractually supported and therefore privileged

1 foreclosure activity, the Defendants' motion to dismiss this claim should be 2 granted, without leave to amend.

3 C. Plaintiff Fails To Plead Each of the Required Elements to State a
4 Claim for Slander of Title.

5 Plaintiff's Slander of Title claim also fails for similar reasons. Again,
6 without adequate factual support, Plaintiff simply concludes that "[a]ll Defendants
7 have caused to be recorded numerous false documents in the records." Complaint,
8 IV, ¶2. Notwithstanding, to state a cause of action for slander of title, a plaintiff 9 must allege facts to establish: (1) false words; (2) maliciously published; (3) with 10 reference to some pending sale or purchase of property; (4) which go to defeat
11 plaintiff's title; and (5) result in plaintiff's pecuniary loss." See Rorvig v. Douglas, 12 123 Wash.2d 854, 859 (1994).

13 For the most part, Plaintiff relies upon the same meritless theory as 14 discussed supra, Point A, regarding MERS' authority and status as the 15 contractually designated nominal beneficiary. As explained above, this theory is 16 without support in law, and therefore cannot support the Plaintiff's slander claim.
17 Accordingly, this claim should also be dismissed for failure to state a claim under 18 the law.

19 D. Plaintiff Fails To State a Claim for Breach of Fiduciary Duty.

20 Plaintiff's claim for breach of fiduciary duty similarly fails because there are 21 no special circumstances alleged by Plaintiff that would impose a fiduciary duty as 22 between any of the Defendants and Plaintiff.

1 To state a claim for breach of fiduciary duty, a plaintiff must plead facts to 2 demonstrate the basis for and existence of a fiduciary relationship. See Swartz v.
 3 Deutsche Bank, 2008 WL 1968948, *15 (W.D.Wash.) (citing Moon v. Phipps, 67
 4 Wash.2d 948, 954 (1966)). Critically, Washington law is clear that “a lender is not
 5 a fiduciary of its borrower; a special relationship must develop between a lender
 6 and a borrower before a fiduciary duty exists.” Tokarz v. Frontier Fed. Sav. &
 7 Loan Ass’n, 33 Wash.App. 456 (1982) (finding no special circumstances to warrant 8 imposing a fiduciary duty on lender).

9 Applied here, Plaintiff has not plead any facts to demonstrate that he and any 10 of the alleged Defendant financial institutions were parties to a “special”
 11 relationship beyond that of a lender and a borrower; and/or that any special 12 circumstances exist such that a quasi-fiduciary duty of care would arise under 13 Washington law. See e.g., Miller v. U.S. Bank of Washington, N.A., 72 Wash.App.
 14 416, 426 (Div. 1 1994) (dismissing breach of fiduciary duty claim against lender).
 15 There is no legal basis upon which Plaintiff’s fiduciary duty claim can be 16 maintained. Accordingly, this Court should also dismiss Plaintiff’s breach of 17 fiduciary duty claim for failure to state a cognizable claim under Washington law.

18 E. Plaintiff Fails To Plead Sufficient Facts to State a Claim for 19 Violation of the Washington Consumer Protection Act, RCW
 20 §19.86, et. seq.

21 Plaintiff’s Consumer Protection Act (“CPA”) suffers from the exact same
 22 fatal pleading defects as each of the Plaintiff’s other claims discussed herein.
 23 Hence, without including any minimally supportive factual detail, or even 24

1 bothering to identify the relevant section of the statutory scheme, the Plaintiff
 2 simply concludes that, “Defendants have engaged in a pattern of unfair business
 3 practices” entitling Plaintiff to damages because “Defendants’ actions and 4 inactions have impaired and damaged him...” Complaint, VI, ¶2.

5 Nevertheless, to prevail on a Washington CPA claim, a private plaintiff must 6 plead facts demonstrating: (1) an unfair or deceptive act or practice, (2) that occurs
 7 in trade or commerce, (3) a public interest, (4) injury to the plaintiff in his or her 8 business or property, and (5) a causal link between the unfair or deceptive act, and 9 the injury suffered. See Ferguson v. Quinstreet, Inc., 2008 WL 3166307, at *10
 10 (W.D.Wash. Aug. 5, 2008) (citing Indoor Billboard/Washington, Inc. v. Integra 11 Telecom of Washington, Inc., 162 Wash.2d 59, 75, 170 P.3d 10 (2007)).

12 Here, the Plaintiff has failed to clearly allege the necessary facts to allow 13 Defendants to discern what Defendant committed what “unfair or deceptive act or 14 practice,” if any; what the relevant public interest is; and what causal link exists 15 between any such unfair or deceptive act and Plaintiff’s alleged injury.
 16 Consequently, this Court must dismiss Plaintiff’s CPA claim against Defendants 17 as a matter of law.

18 F. Plaintiff’s Request For Injunctive Relief Should Also Be Denied.

19 A preliminary injunction is a drastic and extraordinary remedy that is not to 20 be routinely granted. See Intel Corp. v. ULSI Systems Technology, Inc., 995 F.2d
 21 1566, 1568 (Fed. Cir. 1993). In order to obtain preliminary injunctive relief, a 22 plaintiff must demonstrate either: (1) a combination of probable success and the 23 possibility of irreparable harm, or (2) that serious questions are raised and the

1 balance of hardship tips in its favor. See Arcamuzi v. Continental Air Lines, Inc.,
2 819 F.2d 935, 938 (9th Cir. 1987). As further explained by the court in Arcamuzi:

3 If the plaintiff shows no chance of success on the merits,
4 however, the injunction should not issue. (citation
5 omitted). As an “irreducible minimum,” the moving 6 party must demonstrate a fair chance of success on the 7 merits, or questions serious enough to require litigation.
8 (citation omitted). Under any formulation of the test, the 9 moving party must demonstrate a significant threat of 10 irreparable injury. (citation omitted). Arcamuzi, 819
11 F.2d at 938.

12 Applied here, the claims alleged in the Plaintiff’s Complaint are not 13 grounded in the law, and are not supported by adequate factual pleading. As a 14 result, there are simply no grounds upon which this Court could reasonably 15 conclude that the Plaintiff has even a “fair chance of success on the merits” on the 16 underlying claims, and/or has raised any questions that are “serious enough to 17 require litigation.” Benda v. Grand Lodge of Intern. Ass’n of Machinists and 18 Aerospace Workers, 584 F.2d 308, 315 (9th Cir. 1978). Because Plaintiff has 19 failed to satisfy the threshold criteria to obtain the requested injunctive relief, the 20 Court must deny the Plaintiff’s application for a preliminary injunctive relief as a 21 matter of law.

G. The Plaintiff's Claim For Unfair Debt Collection Practices Must Be Dismissed.

Plaintiff's claim for violation of the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act fails because Plaintiff has not plead sufficient facts to support that Defendants are "debt collectors" as expressly defined by the FDCPA, and because the Plaintiff fails to plead facts demonstrating any acts in violation thereof. See 15 U.S.C. § 1692a(6); see e.g., Miller v. Northwest Trustee Services, Inc., 2005 WL 171113, *3 (E.D.Wash.) (dismissing FDCPA claim against mortgage company and trustee for failure to state a claim). Further, as expressly stated by the Court in Barbanti v. Quality Loan Service Corp., "the enforcement of a security interest through a nonjudicial forfeiture does not constitute the collection of a debt for purposes of the FDCPA." 2007 WL 26775, *3 (E.D.Wash.) (relying on, Hulse v. Ocwen Fed. Bank, FSB, 195 F.Supp.2d 1188, 1204 (D. OR. 2002)).

Aside from conclusions of law that must be ignored, once again, Plaintiff fails to allege sufficient facts to establish that any of the Defendants are in fact, debt collectors as defined by the FDCPA. The Plaintiff's Complaint does not contain a single factual allegation to support that any of the Defendants meet the definitional criteria as expressly set forth by 15 U.S.C. § 1692a(6).

In addition, even if Defendants could be considered debt collectors for purposes of the instant action, which they cannot, the Plaintiff's FDCPA claim stills fails for the critical reason that the Plaintiff does not allege sufficient, coherently plead facts to identify what specific acts each Defendant allegedly committed in violation of the FDCPA. Plaintiff makes broad references to the FDCPA, but there are no supportive factual allegations establishing violation of any specific section thereof. Instead, Plaintiff's FDCPA claim appears to be wholly premised upon his contention that the Defendants engaged in certain foreclosure activities, including recording a notice of trustee's sale. (Complaint VIII, ¶6). However, as previously explained, the enforcement of a security interest does not constitute debt collection for purposes of the FDCPA, and therefore cannot constitute violations of the Act. See Barbanti, 2007 WL 26775, *3. In view of the foregoing, Plaintiff's FDCPA claim must also be dismissed as a matter of law.

H. Plaintiff Fails To Allege Facts To State A Claim Pursuant To the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

To state a claim for violation of the Fair Credit Reporting Act ("FCRA"), "a consumer who disputes furnished credit information is required to follow a procedure set out in the FCRA which begins with notifying the credit reporting agency directly of the dispute." Tuazon v. HSBC Mortg. Services, Inc., 2007 WL 1960619, *2 (W.D.Wash.) (emphasis added); see 15 U.S.C. § 1681i (West 2010).

With respect to Plaintiff's Fair Credit Reporting Act claim, Plaintiff includes the following confusing and patently defective allegations in support of his FCRA claim:

The Plaintiff denies ever having any contractual agreement for credit, loans or services relationship with these Defendants. (Complaint, VIII, ¶4);

Even if the Plaintiff did have such an agreement, which the Plaintiff denies, the alleged debt is not in question. However, the fact as to how it was or was not validated and wrongful actions of the Defendants in an attempt to collect a debt and credit reporting of the alleged debt, violated the civil rights of the Plaintiff and the law as outlined in The Fair Credit Reporting Act, 15 USC § 1681, et. seq. (Complaint, VIII, ¶ 5).

While the Plaintiff goes on to recite the text of the relevant section of the statute in paragraph IX of the Complaint, there are still no specific factual allegations related to Defendants' alleged violations included therein. Most critical, however, is the failure by Plaintiff to include any allegation that he notified the credit-reporting agency of any alleged dispute, which reporting action is a necessary prerequisite to maintaining a claim pursuant to the FCRA. See Tuazon, 2007 WL 1960619, *2. Accordingly, Plaintiff's FCRA claim must also be dismissed as a matter of law.

I. Plaintiff Does Not Allege Facts Giving Rise to a RESPA Claim

Plaintiff's final claim for alleged RESPA violations also fails to allege the necessary factual support to state a claim under federal law. While Plaintiff alleges he was not sent "timely and truthful information" (Complaint, IX, p.14), Plaintiff fails to provide the required factual support as required under the law to give basic notice to Defendants as to the basis for the claim alleged against it. See Delino v.

1 Platinum Community Bank, 628 F.Supp.2d 1226, 1232 (S.D.Cal. 2009); Fed. R.
2 Civ. P. 8(a).

3 RESPA § 2605 generally provides that “each servicer of any federally
4 related mortgage loan shall notify the borrower in writing of any assignment, sale,
5 or transfer of the servicing of the loan to any other person...” 12 U.S.C. §
6 2605(b)(1) (West 2010). A plaintiff fails to state a claim pursuant to section 2605
7 unless facts are alleged demonstrating: “when any such alleged transfer took place, 8 what entities were involved in such transfer and therefore had the duty to 9 notify....” Delino v. Platinum Community Bank, 628 F.Supp.2d 1226, at 1232.
10 Even construing the Complaint liberally, there are no such allegations tying 11 Defendants to any violation of RESPA. Accordingly, Plaintiff has not satisfied the 12 minimal notice pleading requirements and has therefore failed to state a claim for 13 RESPA violations. Plaintiff’s final claim must also be dismissed on this basis.

14 15 IV. CONCLUSION

17 For each of the foregoing reasons, Defendants respectfully request that this 18 Court enter an Order dismissing Plaintiff’s Complaint in its entirety, and any 19 further relief as this Court deems just and proper.
